What is a Recovery Coach?

A Recovery Coach is a peer worker with personal recovery experience, trained to encourage, motivate, and support a person on their own substance use recovery journey.

At Connect2Recovery, we use a person-centered, strengths-based approach; the individual determines their goals and the pace of their recovery.

"I am paired with someone who can relate to me on many levels ... my coach knows when I'm doing well and encourages me to keep on track."
